Message from the OCCFR Director

We hope that you are in a healthy place and that spring delivers a sense of renewal after a difficult year. With the vaccine process underway, we can finally look forward to a brighter future for our families.

Our annual celebration of campus child care, Jazzin’, would have taken place this month. Jazzin’ is our major fundraiser whose proceeds assist our campus child care centers with critical operational costs. We’re not able to hold the live event again this year. In its place, we are kicking off a special fundraising initiative in observance of the Week of the Young Child® (April 10-16). The purpose of this week is to focus the public spotlight on the needs of young children and to recognize the early childhood programs and dedicated early educators who work tirelessly to address those needs.

Over the past year, our campus centers have gone above and beyond to serve our youngest and their families. Still, it has been a balancing act with growing budget deficits, especially payroll shortages. In the words of one campus child care director, “COVID has taken its toll and stretched all of us thin.”

How can you help? We are asking that you consider making a gift to one of these two funds: New Campus Child Care Initiatives fund and Office of Child Care and Family Resources fund.
A gift to the Office of Child Care and Family Resources COVID-19 relief fund will help to offset thousands of dollars lost during pandemic closures, most importantly, teacher salaries and administrative overhead. Here is the electronic link: https://www.supportuw.org/giveto/OCCFRfund

A gift to the New Campus Child Care Initiatives fund will boost our efforts to expand child care center capacity as it remains the area of greatest need on campus. Jazzin’ income has always been deposited into this fund. If you’ve supported this event in the past, we would appreciate your continued commitment. As always, we remain deeply grateful for your consideration. Our centers need you now more than ever.

Warm regards,

Cigdem Unal (OCCFR Director) & Teri Stratton (Development)

WEEK OF THE YOUNG CHILD

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Week of the Young Child. The National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) created this annual celebration to honor early education programs and professionals across the country. You and your children can participate in an engaging range of activities from April 10th-16th. It is a great opportunity to recognize young children and their devoted early childhood teachers.

We would like to dedicate this edition of Family Badger Buzz to Week of the Young Child. Time to join in the fun with your family!

Week of the Young Child Activity Resources

UNITY
-by Cleo V. Swarat-

I dreamed I stood in a studio
And watched two sculptors there,
The clay they used was a young child’s mind
And they fashioned it with care.

One was a teacher:
the tools she used were books and music and art;
One was a parent
With a guiding hand and gentle loving heart.

And when at last their work was done,
They were proud of what they had wrought.
For the things they had worked into the child
Could never be sold or bought!
And each agreed she would have failed
if she had worked alone.
For behind the parent stood the school,
and behind the teacher stood the home!

Baked Sweet Potato Buffet

Sweet potatoes are a versatile vegetable and don’t always require marshmallows to taste good. A sweet potato buffet is a fun way to interact with your children during mealtime. The topping possibilities are endless and a creative way to use leftovers from your refrigerator. Children love their naturally sweet flavor, but may not realize that they are highly nutritious, rich with antioxidants and a great source of fiber.

When buying sweet potatoes for a buffet, look for uniform sizes so that they all cook evenly.

Preheat oven to 400 and line a baking sheet with foil

Scrub the sweet potatoes; use a fork to poke a few holes and rub with oil.

Bake on the lined baking sheet for 50 minutes or until they are tender.

While the potatoes are baking, prepare toppings.

Below are a few suggestions; you can use as many as you’d like, or add what you have on hand.

- Salt & pepper
- Sour cream, butter or yogurt
- Shredded or crumbled cheese
- Cooked bacon and/or diced ham
- Chopped scallions or chives
- Any cooked vegetables: asparagus, broccoli, sweet peas, corn
- Black or pinto beans
- Salsa or chopped tomatoes
- Chopped almonds, walnuts or cashews
For a sweet version: cinnamon, brown sugar or maple syrup

BOOK OF THE MONTH

All Are Welcome by Alexandra Penfold & Suzanne Kaufman

I'm sure you can recall a time in your past where you experienced the feeling of being welcomed either by a group of people or an individual. Or maybe you remember a time when you welcomed an individual or group of people. Such a kind and warm gesture goes a long way and can mean A LOT to the recipient.

In our book of the month, the message is about how kids discover that school is a welcoming destination and a place to be loved and appreciated regardless of who you are. The storyline is about celebrating and welcoming diverse backgrounds, sending a powerful message about inclusion.
